Vote the straight Republican ticket.

Shaufelberger, the Democratic candidate for Common Pleas Judge was in town a few days looking after the faithful. He did not succeed in making any impression on the Republicans of this locality.

With the thinking voters of this district it is Statesmanship or nothing—Ashley or Ritchie. The people are satisfied that Byron is a living statue of nothing and those who desire to have the Ninth district represented by a cipher (and a big one at that) should vote for him.

Make an X in the circle under the Eagle on the ticket and then hand it to the judge. There can be no mistake about it then and you can feel satisfied of having done your duty.

William H. Wood, as candidate for second term as Surveyor, will poll a large vote. There is practically no opposition to him and it would make mighty little difference if there was.

If we had the slightest idea that the Ninth Congressional district would be represented by that monument of brass—Byron Ritchie—we would be sorely tempted to move out of the district and deny ever having been a resident thereof.

Toledo is at it again. A gambler alienates the affections of a saloon keepers wife; they separate; the gambler appears on the street and smiles at the irate husband; hubby gets a gun; shoots the gambler in the stomach and neck; hubby arrested; gambler most dead, thank you, and the Future Great grates on.

The county Infermary is quite an importance branch of Wood county's affairs, and should be carefully guarded, and no one is more capable of looking after the welfare of the county's unfortunate inmates as Infermary Director, than Milton Zimmerman, the Republican nominee. He is an old resident of the county, was a faithful soldier in the late war, and is a worthy and respected citizen. Vote for him.

The associated press dispatches say there are forty thousand families starving in East End London, in Free Trade England, and hundreds of idle workmen parade the streets and appeal for work. This is interesting news for Democratic workmen to read just on the eve of the great political contest in the United States which may determine whether or no the American workman is to be protected from the pauper labor of England.

The office of County Commissioner is becoming of more importance every year, and the board of Commissioners should be composed of men of sound judgment and good business ability. James Gibson the Republican candidate for Commissioner is a man whose business sagacity, and his knowledge of the wants of the people of the county, make him specially fitted for the duties of Commissioner. His record as a citizen and Republican is such as to entitle him to the entire vote of his party. That he will be elected there is not the slightest doubt, and there is no reason why he should not receive the full strength of his party vote.

Fred Hillabrand, than whom a more jolly fellow, or stronger Democrat never lived, was home from his tours through the country over Sunday last, and was enjoying himself by relating a few things which he understood Lord Byron Ritchie would promise to do for this locality. Fred says that Governor Ashley is pledged to use his utmost endeavors to have the Maumee river and the old historic Fort Meigs improved and cared for in a manner becoming their historic and commercial importance, and he also says that Lord Byron Ritchie, is not so slow as he might be, and that next Monday night when Byron mounts the stage to enlighten the Democracy on what they should do at election, he will go Governor Ashley one better and promise to dredge the river half a mile further up than Ashley will, and to put a draw in the river bridge at this place, put four men on to turn the draw, with a relief gang of four men for night work, thus giving employment to eight Democrats. That he will improve Fort Meigs by making it a National park, build a dock and run steamers to that place, where the people of Toledo and surrounding towns can enjoy themselves on Sundays with free beer and weiner-worst, and in short, will make himself a public benefactor on the wholesale plan.

All people will appreciate such wonderful generosity on the part of Mr. Ritchie, but he would be going too far; we don't want the earth. Byron is too good. He better go to Bowling Green and promise to have the Maumee river run over that way. He could do as much toward accomplishing that as he could toward getting an appropriation for the Maumee improvements. We are very sorry Byron can't be elected to something, but we thank a kind Providence that it isn't "in the pins" for him to be elected Congressman from the Ninth or any other district.
